

Coracle's team work with organisations to identify learning needs and provide solutions to meet those needs.

Our work often starts with a brainstorm to generate ideas. We look to dig deep and understand - and sometimes challenge - your short-term needs and long-term vision.

We want you to turn your ideas into reality. Whether you need quick wireframes to present to your board in the early stages, help with writing a full specification or general advice, we're on hand.

Coracle's knowledge and understanding of the sector, combined with their open and social approach to eLearning, made them an obvious partner when we started to plan our needs. They bring insight, creativity and discipline and have been key to the development of our new programmes."
